

Workshop Title:
CultureMachine: Harnessing the Power of Youth-Created Media to Spread the Message of Healthy Relationships

We all know that young people today live and breathe in the world of music, culture and the Internet. In this hands-on workshop, participants will experience how writing and recording music for posting on the Internet can help teenagers to internalize and own the message of self-leadership and healthy relationships. Mr. Costa will also break down the steps of creating an online community that supports healthy relationships in your city and state as well as his vision of a nationwide youth-created Internet community that celebrates good character and committed relationships.

Presenter's Bio: Diego Costa

Brazilian-born Diego Costa is a professional musician/singer/songwriter and record producer. He's the co-founder and director of CultureMachine, a Music and Media production enterprise that fosters young artists to use their talents to make a positive impact in other people's lives.

Diego is also a web designer and an online community developer. He gives workshops for teenagers on Songwriting and Music Production as well as training for youth workers and non-profits on how to harness the power of youth-created media to promote character and healthy relationships.

For more information, contact:

Center for Relationship Intelligence

P.O. Box 97, Westwood, NJ 07675

201-488-3733 • Fax: 201-358-9013

CultureMachine.com

info@culturemachine.com